*Of note, approximately 40,000 exemption certificates were issued (for reference, the population of Hong Kong is 7.3 million). On 27 September 2022 the government invalidated more than 20,000 exemption certificates issued by seven doctors, and banned those seven doctors from issuing any further exemption certificates. Several doctors and more than 20 patients were arrested in connection with allegedly fraudulent certificates, and at least two of the seven doctors subsequently faced criminal charges in court.
